MAGNETISATION BY ELECTRICAL OSCILLATIONS

Effects of Leyden Jar Discharges.

REVIEW OF SUBJECT.

Prof. Reilly Describes the Original Experimental Researches.

At the Physical Society, yesterday afternoon, Mr. H. E. Reilly gave a short but very interesting account of the "Magnetic effects of Leyden-jar discharges." Mr. Reilly gave an amusing account of the way the subject had been brought to his attention, and then proceeded to outline its history. The first work on the subject was done by Davy about 1821, who found that the discharge would magnetize needles, but he let the matter go at that, and did not consider that whether the jar discharge was oscillating in nature or not. The next investigator of importance was Joseph Henry, a man with a remarkable history and career, whose range of activities embraced not only physics and mathematics, but engineering, astronomy and geology, not to mention play-writing and acting. Prof. Henry performed some very remarkable experiments on electro-magnetic phenomena, his chief achievement being perhaps the discovery of the phenomena of self-induction. His contributions to the subject of magnetism were many and various; he succeeded in magnetizing steel needles by passing Leyden-jar discharges through helical coils surrounding steel needles, and found that they could be magnetized in either direction by the discharge. This led him to state "... the phenomena cannot be explained by a transfer of imponderable fluid from one side of the jar to the other, but there must be several discharges, each less than the one preceding and in opposite directions."

A further and very remarkable experiment of Henry's was his detection of "strays" of "X's," which are to-day known in wireless telegraphy. He had on his house a metal roof, whose ordinary connection with the ground he cut off and replaced by a wire terminating in one end of a spark gap, whose other terminal was led to an earthen plate. In shunt across the gap were several helical coils in which he placed needles. When a thunderstorm passed at a distance of several miles, he found that the needles became magnetized, now in one direction, now in another, when the discharges took place.

Passing rapidly over the theoretical investigations of H. von Helmholtz and Lord Kelvin, who solved the mathematical problem of the discharging condenser, and give the conditions for oscillation, we come to the important researches of Sir Ernest Rutherford at Cambridge about 1898.

Rutherford passed oscillatory discharges from an induction coil through a coil surrounding a needle and found that if the needle was originally demagnetized it was magnetized by the discharge, and if it were almost saturated it would be remagnetized. He investigated the depth to which the magnetization penetrated by dissolving off the outer layers in nitric acid, and discovered the surprising fact that the direction of magnetization could be reversed by dissolving off the surface.

SOCIAL HELD AT ST. JAMES FINE SUCCESS

Programme Interesting and Enjoyed By All.

DR. HENDERSON SPOKE

McGill Students Attended Many Muses There.

A very enjoyable evening was spent at St. James Methodist Church last night. A special invitation had been extended to all McGill students, and the nurses of many of the city hospitals were the guests of honor.

The various societies and organizations within the Church deserve great credit for the way in which they co-operated to make such a splendid success of the evening. Everyone was made to feel thoroughly at home by the cordial manner in which they were received by the members of the church.

In functions such as this, the greatest difficulty is to get the young people to mix. To cope with this, a series of games had been arranged. As the boys and girls arrived they were duly tagged with slips of paper bearing their names. Programmes were then distributed, and the men set out to find their partners. First, the partners paired off, then, to a lively marching tune, walked downstairs and up again to the hall. In the second game, the men sat and talked with their fair partners. The subject given for conversation was "Ladies' Hats," and the question was whether the ladies did not carry more than in their heads.

Mr. C. Marshall, of St. James' choir, then sang a solo, which was enjoyed by the audience.

Mr. Harold Young, chairman for the evening, then called on Mr. C. V. Baker, the Sunday School superintendent, to address the gathering.

Mr. Baker extended a warm welcome to all, and said that the presence of so many charming nurses would have tempted the famous Mr. Jiggs to become sick. He invited all those present to a supper to be held in St. James Church to-night, and also expressed a wish that all would join the Sunday School.

DELTA SIGMA WINS DEBATE FROM THE LIT.

Unanimous Decision Awarded By the Judge.

ELOQUENT SPEAKING.

Surprise Informal Dance Followed Debate — Large Number Were Present.

The debate last night between the Delta Sigma Society and the "Lit" proved an unqualified success from start to finish. One of the most pleasing features was the large attendance of about three hundred, consisting of nearly equal numbers from the R.V.C. and from the student body at large. That the Delta Sigma Society merited their victory was a matter of unanimous consent. They proved superior both in preparation of their subject-matter and in the manner of its presentation. The speakers for the "Lit" spoke very creditably, however, and on several points, both of delivery and of argument, outclassed their opponents.

In a few words the chairman, J. C. Farthing, president of the "Lit," introduced the speakers. He also tendered his thanks to the many members of the staff who have given valuable help to both societies in the past, and especially to those members who suggested the subject for the debate of the evening.

The leader for the affirmative, Miss Mawdsley, of Arts '20, set out to show that, contrary to popular opinion, a government composed of Farmers' representatives would truly represent the people of Canada. The farmers, it was maintained, depended to a very large extent upon the capital and labor of the Dominion. In this way the interests of commerce and production would be equally represented with those of agriculture. As for the question of representation by population—the agricultural part of the community was sixty-four per cent. of the whole. By the recent Ontario elections, the Farmers' party had undoubtedly been established as a popular party, holding the confidence of the people. But there were a still stronger argument in favor of a Farmers' government. The world was at present tending towards Radicalism of a dangerous kind. The Farmers, combining, as they did, conservatism and progressiveness, were the very people to check this tendency.

D. E. McGregor, of Arts '21, the leader for the negative, put forward as the chief argument for the negative the fact that a government composed wholly of Farmers' representatives could not possibly represent the entire Dominion. Another great objection to government by the Farmers was the opinion of Labor. Farmers were notorious for their cheap wages and the long hours of hard work they expected of their employees. Labor was at present agitating vehemently for higher wages and shorter hours, and would by no means tolerate a Farmers' Government. A clash would be inevitable. The speaker gave an example of startling indifference to affairs of national importance on the part of the Farmers' representatives in Parliament at present, and maintained that a similar state of affairs would be inevitable in the case of a Farmers' Government. The French-Canadians would strongly object.

BASKETBALL TEAM TO HOLD WORKOUT

Two Squads Will Turn Out At Central "Y" To-Day.

Basketball enthusiasts will be interested to hear that four hours a week are now available for practice at the Central Y.M.C.A. The players will be divided into two squads. The first will turn out for work every Tuesday at six o'clock and to-day at three. The second squad will hold a workout on Thursdays at six and to-day at six. Players are requested to be on time if they wish to take full advantage of the time.

The squads are as follows:
First squad — Hay, Montgomery, L. Kern, A. Young, R. Foss, R. Perrault, W. Laisley, Seath, Ferguson, Bourke, McMean, Forbes, Little, Corriveau, O. Crain.

Second squad — M. Kern, McPhail, Leavitt, Schwartzman, Davis, D. Foss, Ameron, Martin, Root, Cuttle, Foster, Ackman, Mendelsohn, James, E. Clarke, Dugan, Crankshaw, Brown, McCaffrey, Murray.

FENCERS AT UNION SHOW GOOD STYLE

Fencing Club Showed Great Improvement Yesterday Afternoon.

The fencers had a very snappy practice yesterday afternoon. Instructor Long showed the men the Italian lunge after going through the positions of the guard and thrust. To beginners, the Italian lunge is hard on the left leg and on the stomach, but it should come with ease after two more practices at the most, as the men are especially asked to go through these very important elementary practices at home. When the men had thoroughly grasped the position of the lunge, they were made to do it more speedily, and to lunge immediately after one of the leg movements of advancing or retreating.

When these practices had been covered, the men had their foils for the first time, and were shown the correct position in which to hold them. Then, after sitting on guard and going through the movements of the thrust several times, they fell back to their places and were put through the lunging movements again very vigorously, keeping this up until the practice ended.

At the next practice, John Long expects all the men to know their positions and movements thoroughly, and he will give the first lesson in defence, showing first the two most important parries in the upper lines of the body. From now on, the men are asked to do their own exercises, to keep themselves physically fit, and to attend all the practices, as something new will be taken up each time. A few cases of lateness have been reported, but this must not occur again, as it is unfair to the instructor, and means that the men cannot devote so much of their time to the best ends.

Men wishing to buy foils can do so by applying to one of the executive at the next meeting. Some excellent French foils with Suzanne blades have been obtained, and the price to club members is $1.15 per foil.

All students wishing to join are requested to do so immediately, as the list will soon be closed.

Intelligent Balloting

Whom will you vote for in the coming class elections? Past elections have been surprising demonstrations of lack of curiosity on the part of class members. Most of them, except perhaps in the two upper classes, vote for a candidate more on his or her reputation rather than on any judgment gained by personal contact.

Of course, particularly in the unwieldy Freshman Class, it is sometimes difficult to meet those who have entered the race in order to choose between them. But the end is worthy of the effort. No thinking man, particularly a collegian, desires to elect to office merely on the "say-so" of some of his own friends. If he does not employ his own good judgment and powers of analysis now, the chances are that he never will.

Our University is a miniature world, where the battles of after life are fought on a smaller scale. Experience gained in "sizing up" men now will be valuable later.

If you have the interests of your class, and the university, at heart, it will pay you to inconvenience yourself, if necessary, in order to make the acquaintance of your candidates. You will find them royal good fellows. And while broadening your acquaintance, you will be discharging what is manifestly a plain duty.

Student Activities

The following editorial clipped from the University of Washington Daily seems to us to be very appropriate at this time. The football season has ended and the season of a great number of athletic activities is about to begin. There is room in these for every man attending the University. Though you may not be a leader in your favorite branch yet you can obtain just the amount of exercise necessary to keep in the condition which is so essential to success, and at the same time by continued conscientious practice you may be rewarded by an ability to excel in this later in your college career.

"Heaven helps those who help themselves," so runs an old proverb. There is a tendency in the University as there is elsewhere to give to him that already has and to ignore the rights of the unknown. In fact, universities have sometimes been criticized as encouraging other people prominent in high school activities and overlooking other people perhaps as worthy and capable.

"A number of University organizations, recognizing that there is a tendency in this direction, make it their policy to encourage every one interested in various lines of endeavor. But even in these organizations participation and activity is up to the students. Various activities outside of the classroom are an indispensable part of a higher education. They help to vitalize college life, to make it real. The big problem is to create a more general interest in such activities.

"Two tentative steps in the solution of this problem might be suggested: First, that the student "try out" a number of organizations in which he is interested and permanently align himself with activities in which he seems most congenial; and second, that all organizations with interest as the only membership qualification be extensively developed and advertised."

Y.M.C.A. HOSPITALITY.

The plan, which was commenced last week-end, for introducing students to families in the city will be continued this and following week-ends. A large number of men availed themselves of the scheme for Sunday last and many have reported to the "Y" as having had the best of times.

The success of last week has necessitated the "Y" increasing their list of hosts and hostesses, and it is thought there will be sufficient to meet all demands to-night and to-morrow. Will those men interested please call around at the Strathcona Hall, Room E, to-night from 6 to 8 p.m., and Saturday from 4 to 8 p.m.

Also the committee are anxious to know of any McGill men, staying in the city over Christmas, who would like to come in on the scheme for either Christmas Day or some part of the holiday.

VALUABLE ADVICE.

Did you ever stop to think of how many of the season's activities wind up with a dance, right from a house party to the finish of a football game, and you have regretted not being able to take part when a few private lessons with Maurice Sheffer, Principal of the Castle School of Dancing, will enable you to dance for the next party. Phone Up. 9244 for your next appointment.—Adv.

MAGNETISATION BY ELECTRICAL OSCILLATION

layer, and that by dissolving off still more it could be reduced to zero. There are thus two layers whose directions of magnetization are opposite. The theoretical explanation is that the first half wave of the oscillation magnetizes the needle and that the second half wave reverses this magnetization but to a lower depth, and so on for the other half waves. From this, Rutherford developed a magnetic detector, which was sufficiently sensitive to work over a range of half a mile.

Professor Rutherford then demonstrated the magnetization of some needles by the direct effect of the radiation from an oscillatory circuit, employing both an induction coil and a Wimshurst to charge the condenser. The effects were quite marked. He also had on exhibition a working model of Henry's "Electro-magnetic Engine," one of the first such engines ever designed.

STUDENT SERVICE.
The next student service will be held in Christ Church Cathedral to-morrow evening at 7.00 p.m. Instead of Dec. 21st, as previously announced, Rev. Dr. Symonds will preach on "The Problem of Sin in Modern Thought." Students and their friends are very cordially invited.

SOCIAL HELD AT ST. JAMES A SUCCESS

Mrs. J. Ferrier Torrance, president of the Ladies' Aid, then spoke for a few minutes, and dwelt on the pleasure it had been to the ladies to prepare the feast.

Dr. Henderson, the pastor, was called upon, and gave a witty address, spiced with much good advice and kindness.

He dwelt humorously on the "great gall" Mr. Young had displayed in suggesting that ladies carried more on than in their heads. He said that since his marriage Mr. Young has been a much steadier young man, then praised him very highly for the energetic manner in which he had managed the business of the social evening.

Dr. Henderson told how St. James Church had been very closely connected with the Wesleyan Theological College ever since its inauguration. His story of the Scotch minister and his barrel of dry sermons was very witty.

The clergyman kept his old sermons in a barrel, and fearing they had become wet, sent the sexton to verify his fears. He soon returned, and in his dry Scotch way informed the anxious parson that his sermons were as dry as ever they had been.

Striking in a more serious note, Dr. Henderson voiced the need of the Church for young and stirring blood. He then closed by inviting all to come to church.

A very interesting part of the programme was a race between the Wesleyan Theological College and a team composed of McGill men. The opposing teams sat on the floor and each man placed his hands around the man in front of him. Each side had to move along the floor backwards as fast as possible, and the McGill team won, much to the detriment of their Sunday trousers.

Mrs. Roy Fulkerson then sang two solos, which were greatly appreciated, and Miss Ruby McCulloch's solos were greatly enjoyed.

A dainty lunch was then served by the ladies of the church, and everyone did full justice to it. As the hour was getting late, all joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne," and parted after an evening that had been full of pleasure.

GERMANS LEAVE ALSACE.

More than 32,000 Germans left Alsace during the French Government's recent campaign to stamp out disturbing propaganda, according to the "Lausanne Gazette." Statistics show that up to the end of October, 2800 Germans were expelled, 18,500 left voluntarily and 4800 German railway employees were "repatriated." In addition, about 6000 Germans not included in these statistics also left under various conditions, according to the Gazette, which says that 12,000 remained in Alsace on November 1. These figures cover only Alsace, but the French Government's efforts are being continued both in that Province and in Lorraine.

"What is the matter, Emory?" he inquired.
"I have just learned that there is in Manitoba a place called 'Athapuskaw,' was the answer. "Aw-boo! hoo, hoo!" Thereupon his friend clasped hands with him, and they both wept bitterly.

SOPHOMORES WIN DEBATE FROM FRESH

Win Easily By Advantage Of Twenty-Nine Points.

JUDGES UNANIMOUS.

Sophs Produce Facts in Support While Fresh Give Ideals As Evidence.

The first of the Inter-class debates for the Robertson Debating Shield was held under the auspices of the Literary and Debating Society in the Assembly Hall last night. There was a splendid attendance of both students and staff. The topic for debate was "Resolved that Labor Unions are a disadvantage to Canadian Industries." The affirmative was upheld by H. W. Brighton and P. H. Ashby '22, while the negative was upheld by Mr. Bowen and Mr. Bushell '23.

The meeting was opened by the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting. The first speaker for the affirmative was Mr. Brighton. He proved that Labor Unions were disadvantageous to Canadian Industries, because they decreased production and loved to do over a certain limited showed where the men were not amount of work by their Unions. "Labor Unions," he said, "discouraged efficiency in that they demanded a standard wage for the men regardless of the efficiency of the men. Through the 'One Big Union' ideal Unions seek to control the industries of the country," he went on, "and by the preventing the taking in of men as apprentices under Canada's vocational training system the Unions cut down the number of skilled workmen and thus handicapped the industries of Canada." Mr. Brighton, it might be stated here, was easily the speaker of the evening.

Mr. Bowen followed and presenting the case for the negative stated that under their idea of Unions Radicalism, Socialism and Bolshevism were included. Mr. Bowen then took up the practical economic side of the question and stated that with shorter hours had come more work. He said that the Unions promote the workers' ambition at that by division of labor Unions kept the men to their various trades and thus promoted efficiency. He stated that the Railways relations with Union men had always been most satisfactory.

Mr. Ashby, the second speaker of the affirmative, then took up their case again. His speech was not without its humorous points. He stated that piecework was the best way to increase output, and that even during the war the Unions were a great disadvantage to the carrying on of the war by the way strikes were called that held up shell orders. With the Unions came dissatisfaction with conditions and undesirable elements almost invariably figure as agitators, he said. Unions are a menace to humanity by the violence of which they are usually the cause, he went on, and in Winnipeg the Unions did their best to set up mob rule.

The second speaker for the negative, Mr. Bushell, concluded the speeches. He spoke on the way the Labor Unions helps the working man's condition. Labor Unions too, hoped to reduce illness of the workers by bettering working conditions, he said, and the Labor Union is working hard for Compulsory Education.

Mr. Brighton, in his rebuttal, stated that the laws of the country and the municipalities protect the individual's interests.

While waiting for the judges decision a solo by Miss Horner and several selections by the Sing-Song Choir were much appreciated. Dr. Macfarlane, chairman of the judges (who consisted of Dr. Macfarlane, Dr. Inell and Dean Laird) gave a short criticism of the debate, and the judges decision, which was unanimous for the Sophomores by a score of 155 to 126. The decision was based on the fact that the Sophomore debaters gave facts in support, while the Freshmen team gave ideals instead of backing for their arguments. The meeting was closed by the singing of the College songs and the National Anthem.

NOTICES.

Special services are being held in both the churches on Sunday. In the Union Church Communion will be dispensed at 11 a.m. and Dr. Hart's subject will be "Spiritual Development." At the evening service Dr. Hart will give an illustrated lecture entitled "From Opium Fiend to Preacher"—a Chinese story.

In St. George's Church at 7 p.m. the following special musical programme is being given: Baritone solo by Mr. Archer, Nazareth—Gounod; Organ selection, Adagio Sonata Pathétique—Beethoven; Contralto solo by Mrs. Archer, "O, Rest in the Lord"—from Eljah; Violin solo by Mr. Douglas.

DR. LOHEAD JOINS BENEDICTS' RANKS

Leaving College Staff To Take Toronto Position.

While students and staff all will regret that Dr. Grant Lohead is leaving the college staff to take a position in Toronto as bacteriologist for the Canadian Milk Products Co., they will all join in wishing him success in his new position and on his entry into married life.

Dr. Lohead was married on Tuesday to Miss Helen Louise Vanwart at the home of the bride's parents (Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Vanwart), in Fredericton, N.B. It might be said by way of explanation, that Dr. Lohead met his wife while she was taking up advanced musical studies in Germany, where he was taking post graduate work in bacteriology. When the war broke out Miss Vanwart was one of the few British subjects who succeeded in leaving the country, while Dr. Lohead was detained at the civilian camp at Ruhleben till the end of the war. Since the signing of the Armistice and his return to Canada, Dr. Lohead has held the post of assistant and lecturer in bacteriology at Macdonald College. A number of the students and staff will doubtless remember Mrs. Lohead's musical capability during her stay at the college, as a short course student in 1917.

Dr. and Mrs. Lohead will spend a short honeymoon in Montreal, after which they will take up their residence in Toronto.

Mac's Who's

Who were the Senior Science girls who were so indignant at the treatment meted out to a certain Freshman that Monday night last week?

Who is the member of Short Course Science who got on the 5.15 at Westmount on Saturday and went out to Chateaugay before she discovered that she was on the wrong train?

Who is the Senior who was seen being fed chocolates by a certain one of the fair sex in one of the halls the other day?

Who is the Freshman whose mouth when he partakes of liquid nourishment is so cow-like that it would bring joy and inspiration to any cartoonist's heart?

Who is the Junior Science who thought she had such a good win on the Freshies in basketball this week and did she win her bet?

Who is the travelling coat hanger for the Short Course?

Who is the Aggie who can't choose between looks and "cats"? Now, "Father!"

Who is the Junior who, whenever he takes a young lady out, provokes the singing by the rest of the girls of a certain well-known Scotch song to the girl he is accompanying?

Who is the young lady who, when told that a certain Sophomore came from the West Indies, remarked "that he did not look at all like a mulatto?"

Who was the Third year man who was told by a lecturer that as the insect of which the lecturer was speaking was found on books, "You'll never find one?"

Who is the girl who thinks she will never learn to swim by being pulled around the tank with a rope?

Who is the Sophomore who expressed his disgust at the way two girls for whom he had gone to the trouble of getting chairs at the game the other night proceeded to raise the roof cheering for the Freshmen?

Who is the chestnut haired Third year man who is so often seen in the dining room of one of the Montreal hotels satisfying the demands of the inner man?

Who is the Sophomore so touchingly referred to by a certain chemistry lecturer as "bright light"?

Who is the student who rushed madly to the room of one of her neighbors to tell her "I can't go for that walk with you, a man has come to see me?"

Who is the young lady who displayed such a vast amount of ignorance in millinery Wednesday afternoon? Oh, Hilda! You'll soon know better than that!

Who is the Model in Section "C" who, when teaching gym, cast reflections on the proportions of her fellow students by telling them to "pull their chins in"?

Who is the author of anonymous letters to the Macdonald editor. Communications must be signed as evidence of good faith, but not necessarily for publication?

Crawford, Minuet—Beethoven; Trio, "Lift Thine Eyes"—from Eljah; Violin solo by Mr. Douglas Crawford, Transcription—Schumann; Organ selection, Toccata in D minor—Edwards.

DELTA SIGMA WINS DEBATE FROM THE LIT.

ject to the rule of such a party. The second speaker for the affirmative, Miss Doris Dart, of Arts '21, gave as her share of the debate a concise outline of the present Farmers' platform and the history of its formation. The Farmers' Association have declared themselves in favor of the League of Nations, the reduction of the National Debt by the encouragement of agriculture, the reform of the tariff, and the furthering of the ties of Empire by means of a preferential tariff. The introduction of Reciprocity with the United States, and of a tax on Capital have also been made a part of their platform. The Farmers' party, it was maintained, was a thoroughly progressive party in every sense of the word, as was shown by their advocacy of women members of Parliament and the elimination of the middleman.

With great eloquence and persuasive force, Gaston De Lisle, of Law '22, the last speaker for the negative, made a last appeal against the resolution. He characterized the Farmers' Government as an unpardonable break with British ideals and traditions of the past. Ever since the signing of the Magna Charta, English-speaking peoples had been progressing towards democracy in the purest form. If the Farmers' Government were a success, it would be because they were able and public-spirited citizens, and not because they were rural representatives. The Farmers' platform, as outlined by the previous speaker, was indeed a promising one, but the Farmers' Government of to-morrow might be a very different organization from the Farmers' party of to-day.

In her rebuttal, Miss Mawdsley countered the statements of the negative by a very finished and well-turned speech. The evidence produced by the affirmative was entirely documentary. It was maintained, while their opponents seemed to rely upon their own personal opinions.

While the judges retired for deliberation, Sinding's "Serenade" and Elgar's "Salut d'amour" were very pleasingly rendered by the R.V.C. orchestra.

In announcing the decision of the judges, Dean Moyse spoke upon the great importance of debating societies as tending to cultivate one of the greatest of assets, careful and polished public speaking. The audience, which had been kept anxiously waiting for the fateful verdict, greeted the award to the affirmative with great applause.

A very pleasant surprise, in the shape of an informal dance, was sprung upon the followers of the two societies. Refreshments were served in the committee room nearby, dancing going on for about an hour and a quarter following the debate.

TO-MORROW'S Y.M.C.A. MEETING.

The Sunday meeting of the Y.M.C.A. will be held to-morrow at 9.30 a.m. This will probably be the last addressed meeting before the college closes for the holidays, and a big final meeting is earnestly desired. The speaker will be J. Newell Stephenson, M.S., Editor of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Magazine, a resident of St. Annes. Mr. Stephenson is a college man, and has always taken a keen interest in college activities. He will no doubt have a suitable message for Macdonald men.

There will be a Sing-Sing immediately after church on Sunday night in the Assembly Hall.

Canadian Club Expects To Arrange Address.

PLANS NOT DEFINITE.

Final Announcement Will Be Made First Of Week.

The McGill Canadian Club, following up the good work of last week, have made the announcement printed below. This will undoubtedly be of great interest to the students at the University, and the bulletins of which they make mention will be looked for with great expectation. If at all possible, the "Daily" will print all particulars of the meeting before it takes place.

"The McGill Canadian Club expects to be able to make arrangements whereby Viscount Jellicoe will give a brief address to the students of McGill University, on Tuesday or Wednesday next.

"It is impossible to make any definite announcement until Viscount Jellicoe actually reaches Montreal on Tuesday. If he can address our McGill students, there may not be time to announce the fact in the 'McGill Daily.' If it is impossible to do so, it will be announced in the McGill Union and a bulletin will be posted at the University gate, giving the time and place when the address will be delivered. The students should be on the lookout for such an announcement."

TWO SECTIONS IN BOXING YESTERDAY

Boxers Hold First Meet Under New System Of Classes.

The first boxing meet under the new division of classes was held last night. The advanced section started work at 5:15, under Mr. McBrearty, with an opening attendance of fifteen men. A sparring practice was begun immediately, and a series of short, snappy bouts were put on, in which Mr. McBrearty chose the partners and coached the men individually.

The workout was very encouraging from the point of view of material, and everyone showed that they were out for hard work and intended to make the most of their time. The section has a good representation of middle and light weights, but as yet few heavy weights have been available to choose from. The heavy weight match is always considered the most important event of a boxing programme, and it is essential that the club should have as many men as possible in this class.

The numbers of the beginners' class, which meets at 6:15, have been considerably swelled by Meds. and Law men, who were prevented by lectures from attending the 5:15 classes. Mr. Smith followed his usual method, and started the workout by warming up exercises in blows, counters and footwork. After this, the men paired off, according to weight, and were put through a stiff practice consisting of several bouts in succession, with a change of partners each time.

Several of the bouts showed promising material, and some promotions to the advanced section will probably be made in the near future. There is no reason why the new men should not develop rapidly, as the best of coaching is assured under Mr. Smith, and close attention to instructions is all that is required.

Now that the two classes are permanently organized, the work is found to be greatly simplified and much time is saved by having fewer numbers to deal with. As soon as the beginners' class gets settled down into its regular swing, it will be possible to pick out the men of ability and fill up the ranks of the advanced class.

Correspondence

The Daily is not responsible for the sentiments of letters published in the correspondence columns. Signed communications from graduates, undergraduates and members of the faculties will be placed in print if they are not of too great length.

Correspondents are requested to observe the unwritten law of the newspaper office—that they write upon ONE side of the paper ONLY.

No communication will be admitted in this column without the name of the writer being attached, not necessarily for PUBLICATION.

To the Editor of the "McGill Daily":

In reference to the scathing editorial which appeared in your issue of the 4th instant, I feel I would be neglecting my duty, not only to the members of the Freshmen-Sophomore years, but to the University and Montreal public as a whole if I did not present the true facts of the case.

First of all for what actually happened. The dinner, composed as it was of about 275 students, could not be better described than in your own words, in your issue of the 3rd instant "as a scene of much jollification." It was after the dinner that the only incidents occurred which could possibly warrant your criticism as a shameful abuse of the courtesy which the hotel offered. Such acts of rowdiness as may have occurred were perpetrated by possibly a dozen students at most. While I do not wish to excuse any actions on their part, I wish to state that with these few exceptions the vast majority of the classes behaved with absolute decorum, the contrary to which your editorial implies.

In the opinion of the assistant manager of the hotel, who had possibly a better opportunity of knowing what took place than your scribe, it was a noisy gathering, but had seen lots worse.

As to the "Bolshevism" and disgusting warfare to which you refer, I have no doubt that on looking back over your files, even possibly in the far-off days when your scribe was a Freshman, you would read of occurrences which would equally well deserve the caption of "Bolshevism" or "Disgusting Warfare." Mysterious tales are told of a certain Sifton meeting, of the "Glad Eye" theatre night, of a policeman injured for life by student rowdiness. I do not quote these as an excuse for those few who helped to drag the fair name of McGill in the mire on Tuesday night, but to impress on you that Freshmen always have been as Freshmen are now, and, in spite of the most tactless diatribes of schoolboy journalists, always will be.

With the usual apologies for encroaching on your space.

T. M. J.

Ed. Note.—It is indeed unfortunate that three hundred sane and sober Medical students could not curb their more unfortunate classmates—1% in number. It is also a curious thing that the city police reserves had to be called out to quiet a mere dozen of intoxicated youths. It is not necessary to comment further upon the affair, as it will be recognized by all those who were in the vicinity of the Windsor on that night, to be hopelessly apart from the facts of the case.

Editor of "Daily":

Dear Sir.—Perhaps a word or two through your columns may help to dispel some misconceptions that appear to have arisen from the reports of the proposed organization of "foreign" students.

A recent editorial in the "Daily" while commending this movement, suggested the danger of segregating this group of students who should be assimilated by the University. As the only Canadian present at the meeting on Wednesday night, I hope that the others will not feel that I have abused their confidence when I say that the editorial writer would have been pleased to find there no tendency toward segregation, but on every side a whole-hearted desire to participate more fully in the experience of the native Canadian student. Although it was discovered that very few indeed of these men had been drawn into extracurricular activities, social or otherwise—showing that the process of assimilation had not developed very fully—there was, instead of complaint, an expression of satisfaction at what the University had to offer and a desire to promote better understanding among the students here, and to make the name of McGill known in the lands abroad. In these wishes are expressed the purposes of the organization.

Again, the term "foreign" has caused some annoyance to loyal subjects from other parts of the Empire. It is an unfortunate term. At a large convention at Detroit recently it was struck out of a resolution, and "students from other lands" substituted. That sounds better, yet it is quite as misleading as the other. Can someone coin an acceptable phrase that will be inclusive of all those peoples, whatever their political connections may be, who come from other lands, and who, because of racial or circumstantial differences, find difficulty in getting adjusted here; and yet exclusive of those who by blood and training are one with us? The term "foreign" as used here has no political significance. Yet it is inadequate and ambiguous, and our "foreign" friends who seek a new comradeship in a strange land use it only until another is found which more clearly expresses their meaning. In the new, united world, that term will soon have to be eliminated from our vocabulary anyhow. Yet differences of race and experience will remain. By what term shall we express them?

J. G. McKAY.

The Editor of the "McGill Daily":

Dear Sir,—I heartily endorse the letter appearing in your issue of the 4th inst., over the pseudonym of "Washer." I would like to add that at noon to-day, the 5th inst., there was still no soap. This inconvenient condition of affairs has prevailed throughout the session. Cannot something be done?

Yours truly,

G. H. CARTWRIGHT.

AQUATIC SPORTS OF R.V.C. TO-DAY

The R.V.C. will hold a swimming party at the M.A.A.A. tank to-day at noon. This is the first swimming party that the R.V.C. has held for the past few years, and as there are many good swimmers at the College, this meet should prove both successful and interesting. A special luncheon will be served for the swimmers at 1:45 p.m.

The list of events will be as follows:

- 1.—20 Yards face dive heats.
- 2.—Diving.
- 3.—20 Yards finish.
- 4.—Plate diving.
- 5.—Staff race.
- 6.—40 Yards heats.
- 7.—Walking race.
- 8.—40 Yards finish.
- 9.—Splash diving.
- 10.—Long plunge.
- 11.—Inter-year relay.
- 12.—Stunts.

ELECTIONS.

Owing to the fact that there are no lectures in the Faculty of Law on Monday next, Elections for Faculty Representatives on the Students' Council will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 9th.

Polling will take place at the various faculty buildings from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.
